MEMORANDUM AND ORDER

I. BACKGROUND

The Clerk of the Court entered default against Alpha Phi Alpha, Inc. d/b/a/ Psi Chapter (“Psi Chapter”) on May 22, 2006. Presently before the Court is Psi Chapter’s Motion to Set Aside the Default. For the reasons set forth below, the Court grants the Motion.

Plaintiff E. Martyn Griffen, a University of Pennsylvania student, aspired to become a member the Psi Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha, Inc., while in his junior year of college.¹ Unfortunately, Mr. Griffen’s courtship with Psi Chapter was interrupted by allegations of physical and verbal abuse. (Compl. ¶¶ 13-14.) In October 2005, Mr. Griffen and other Fraternity “aspirants” were summoned to the Psi Chapter’s fraternity house by members of the Psi Chapter in order to study and prepare for fraternity activities. (Compl. ¶¶ 10-11.) During this visit to the fraternity house, Mr. Griffen claims that he, and other aspirants, were disciplined by Defendant-Psi Chapter members Lionel Anderson-Perez and Kelehi Okereke, as punishment for revelations of fraternity secrets by one of the co-aspirants to a non-fraternity audience.² (Compl. ¶¶ 12-13.) According to Mr. Griffen, Mr. Anderson-Perez punched him repeatedly in the thighs, and Mr. Okereke snapped a rubber band around Plaintiff's upper arm. (Compl. ¶ 15.) Mr. Griffen alleges that as a result of the physical abuse, he has suffered serious and permanent injuries, including myositis ossificans and heterotopic ossification³ of his thigh muscles, and permanent scarring of his upper arm. (Compl. ¶ 23.)

On April 25, 2006, Plaintiff Griffen filed a ten-count Complaint against Messrs. Anderson-Perez and Okereke, as well as Psi Chapter and Alpha Phi Alpha, Inc. (the "Fraternity"). On the next day Psi Chapter, Anderson-Perez and Okereke were personally served with the Complaint. (Pl.'s Req. to Enter Default ¶ 1.)⁴ On May 24, 2006, the Fraternity executed a waiver of service pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 4(d), which timed its obligation to respond to the lawsuit to June 26, 2006. The Fraternity adhered to this deadline by filing a Motion to Dismiss or in the Alternative Stay Pending Arbitration on June 25, 2006. However, the individual Defendants and Psi Chapter, having been personally served, were obligated by Rule 12 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure to respond by May 16, 2006. Only Messrs. Okereke and Anderson-Perez answered the Complaint by this deadline. (Pl.'s Resp. 5.) On May 18, 2006, Mr. Griffen requested, and on May 22, 2006, the Clerk of the Court entered, default against Psi Chapter. On August 24, 2006, Psi Chapter filed a Motion to Set Aside Default

²Mr. Anderson-Perez was a graduate member of Psi Chapter and Mr. Okereke was an undergraduate member. (Compl. ¶¶ 16-17.)

³Myositis ossificans and heterotopic ossification refer to the abnormal formation of true bone within extraskeletal soft tissues due to spinal cord or localized traumatic injury.

⁴Proof of Service was filed with the Court May 3, 2006.

II. DISCUSSION

Defendant Psi Chapter argues that the Court should set aside the entry of default because the failure to answer or otherwise plead in response to the Complaint was the result of excusable neglect. Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 55(c), the Court may set aside the entry of default for “good cause shown.” Mike Rosen & Assocs., P.C. v. Omega Builders, 940 F. Supp. 115, 117 (E.D. Pa. 1996). Whether or not to set aside an entry of a default rests in the discretion of the Court, provided a refusal to vacate is supported by appropriate findings on the record. See Emcasco Ins. Co. v. Sambrick, 834 F.2d 71, 74 (3d Cir. 1987); Williams v. CSX Transp., Inc., 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12130, at *4-5 (E.D. Pa. 2002) (citing Bailey v. United Airlines, 279 F.3d 194, 204 (3d Cir. 2002)). “This court does not favor defaults and...in a close case doubts should be resolved in favor of setting aside the default and reaching a decision on the merits.” Mike Rosen, 940 F. Supp. at 117 (quoting Gross v. Stereo Component Sys. Inc., 700 F.2d 120, 122 (3d Cir. 1983)); see also United States v. $ 55,518.05 in U.S. Currency, 728 F.2d 192, 194 (3d Cir. 1984).

Four factors should be considered to determine whether good cause exists to set aside default: (1) whether the defendant has a meritorious defense; (2) whether the plaintiff will be prejudiced by vacating default; (3) whether the default was the result of the defendant’s culpable conduct; and (4) the effectiveness of alternative sanctions. Chamberlain v. Giampapa, 210 F.3d ⁵The Clerk of the Court entered default, not default judgment against Psi Chapter. However, the same standard for setting aside default judgment applies to setting aside entry of default. Stone v. Brennan, 2006 WL 2092583, at *1 (E.D. Pa. July 25, 2006) (citing Feliciano v. Reliant Tooling Co., 691 F.2d 653, 656 (3d Cir.1982)).

A. Meritorious Defense

A meritorious defense exists where the Defendant's allegations would be a complete defense to the action, if established at trial. Hritz v. Woma Corp., 732 F.2d 1178, 1181 (3d Cir. 1984) (the threshold issue in opening a default judgment is whether a meritorious defense has been asserted). Plaintiff Griffen claims negligence against Psi Chapter, and in response to this claim, Psi Chapter has asserted the defenses of failure to establish proximate cause and contributory negligence. (Def.'s Mot. 4.) Specifically, Psi Chapter asserts that Mr. Griffen's injuries were caused by the unsanctioned, intervening, and superseding tortious conduct of Messrs. Anderson-Perez and Okereke,⁷ as well as Mr. Griffen's own negligent participation in activities that were specifically prohibited by the Fraternity and by Psi Chapter's rules, which Mr. Griffen acknowledged and accepted. Id.

Psi Chapter's defense based upon the Plaintiff's own contributory negligence is not potentially meritorious. Under Pennsylvania's "Anti-hazing Law," a plaintiff's alleged participation in hazing is not a defense: "any activity...upon which the initiation or admission into...an organization is directly or indirectly conditioned shall be presumed to be 'forced' activity, the willingness of an individual to participate in the activity notwithstanding.” 24 P.S. § 5352. Therefore, Plaintiff’s own negligent contribution to his injuries would not be a complete defense at trial and, therefore, would not suffice to vacate default.

⁶In Stone v. Brennan, 2006 WL 2092583, at *1 (E.D. Pa. July 25, 2006), the court noted that in a recent non-precedential opinion, the Third Circuit Court of Appeals omitted the fourth factor (the effectiveness of alternative sanctions) in considering whether to vacate entry of default. See, e.g., Nationwide Mut. Ins. Co. v. Starlight Ballroom Dance Club, Inc., No. 05-1031, 2006 WL 623074, at *2 (3d Cir. Mar. 14, 2006). As in Stone, the availability of alternative sanctions, while not providing a conclusive result to the present dilemma, weighs on the same side as the other factors and avoids foreclosing further litigation on the merits. Stone, 2006 WL 2092583, at *1.

⁷Psi Chapter alleges that Mr. Griffen's action against Messrs. Okereke and Anderson-Perez for assault and battery further supports the Chapter's defense.

Psi Chapter’s second defense, that of failure to establish proximate cause, is a potentially meritorious defense. A person’s wrongful conduct is the “proximate cause” of an injury to another person if it is a substantial factor in bringing about the harm. See Restatement (Second) of Torts § 431 (1965). However, “an intervening act of a third party, which actively operates to produce harm after the first person’s wrongful act has been committed, is a superseding cause which prevents the first person from being liable for the harm which his antecedent wrongful act was a substantial factor in bringing about.” Egervary v. Young, 366 F.3d 238, 246 (3d Cir. 2004) (citing Restatement (Second) of Torts § 440-441 (1965)). Here, Psi Chapter argues that Messrs. Okereke and Anderson-Perez knew of, and willfully disobeyed the Fraternity’s policies against hazing; therefore, in administering any physical or verbal harm to Mr. Griffen, the two members broke the causal chain that would have established Psi Chapter’s liability for negligence. (Def.’s Mot. 4.)

Plaintiff Griffen argues that Psi Chapter may not, as it has here, establish a meritorious defense with “simple denials or conclusory statements.” Worldwide Assocs. v. Golden Mark Maintenance, Ltd., 2000 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 8701, at *4 (E.D. Pa. June 9, 2000) (quoting $55,518.05 in U.S. Currency, 728 F.2d at 195). However, Psi Chapter’s articulated defenses are not so sparse as to be devoid of substance. Psi Chapter has set forth sufficient facts, if proven at trial, to establish a meritorious defense of failure to establish proximate cause. Mike Rosen, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13386, at *7-8 (defendant has established a meritorious defense when it alleges specific acts that go beyond a general denial such that the court has some basis for determining whether the defendant can make out a complete defense).

B. Prejudice to Plaintiff

Next, the Court must consider whether vacating default would prejudice Mr. Griffen. Setting aside an entry of default causes prejudice in this context to the plaintiff where it results in a loss or destruction of evidence, increased potential for fraud and collusion, or substantial reliance upon the entry of default. Atlas Communications, Ltd. v. Waddill, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 17049, at *4 (E.D. Pa. Oct. 31, 1997). None of these results have been shown here.

Instead, Plaintiff Griffen argues that if the Court vacates default against Psi Chapter, the Court “could preclude Plaintiff from seeking any relief from any Defendant in this Court.” (Pl.’s Resp. 8.) In support of this argument, Mr. Griffen first submits that his ability to take discovery is disabled because Defendants Anderson-Perez and Okereke will exercise their Fifth Amendment rights to remain silent and decline to participate in discovery until their criminal trials have resolved. Id. Second, Mr. Griffen argues that he will not be able to take discovery or seek relief from the Fraternity due to the Fraternity’s willful choice not to answer the Complaint in favor of filing a Motion to Dismiss or Stay Pending Arbitration. Id. Clearly, however, lifting the default does not preclude Plaintiff from seeking relief, and, in fact, may assist in expediting discovery as this litigation would now continue to progress through its conventional early stages. Moreover, “[d]elay in realizing satisfaction on a claim rarely constitutes prejudice sufficient to prevent relief.” Feliciano v. Reliant Tooling Co., Ltd., 691 F.2d 653, 657 (3d Cir. 1982).

C. Culpable Conduct

A defendant’s conduct is culpable where its delay in responding is “willful or in bad faith.” Mike Rosen, 940 F. Supp. at 118. While more than mere negligence must be demonstrated, Hritz, 732 F.2d at 1182, “reckless disregard for repeated communications from plaintiffs and the Court, combined with failure to investigate the source of a serious injury” can result in inexcusable default. Williams, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12130, at * 9.

Mr. Griffen argues that Psi Chapter, on at least two occasions, deliberately ignored its obligation to respond to his Complaint. The record is clear, and both parties agree, that Psi Chapter was served with the Complaint and the Summons on April 26, 2006; an answer was therefore due May 16, 2006. Two days later, on May 18, 2006, Psi Chapter was served with Mr. Griffen’s Request for Default. However, Psi Chapter took no action until August 24, 2006. Finally responding to the lawsuit with a Motion to Set Aside Default Judgment, Psi Chapter explained to the Court that its reason for failing to respond was that it “assumed that [Alpha Phi Alpha, Inc.] had received a copy of the summons served upon Psi Chapter” and would file an answer on its behalf. (Def.’s Mot., Ex. A.) In fact, the Fraternity was not served with a copy of Psi Chapter’s summons, and as to its own, it executed a waiver which placed its obligation to respond to Mr. Griffen’s Complaint on June 26, 2006. (Def.’s Mot., Ex. B.)

Mr. Griffen asks the Court to find that Psi Chapter’s reliance on the Fraternity to respond to the Complaint was a willful and bad faith choice not to act as instructed by the clear language of the Summons. (Pl.’s Resp. 10.) Psi Chapter argues instead that its mistaken assumption regarding its obligations to respond was the result of excusable neglect. (Def.’s Mot. 6.) In weighing these two contrasting interpretations, the Court is mindful that the Third Circuit Court of Appeals regards dismissal as a “sanction of last, not first resort,” Emasco Ins. Co., 834 F.2d at 75 (quoting Carter v. Albert Einstein Med. Center, 804 F.2d 805, 807 (3d Cir. 1986)). Even where neglect is inexcusable, and even where the Court cannot condone a defendant's failure to respond to a lawsuit for an extended period of time, culpable conduct warranting the refusal to set aside default must rise to the level of "flagrant bad faith," and "callous disregard of responsibility." Id. (quoting Nat'l Hockey League v. Metro. Hockey Club, Inc., 427 U.S. 639, 643 (1976)). Here, though Psi Chapter's failure to respond to the Complaint suggests at best an inappropriate casualness as to its obligations, it does not sink so low as to warrant the "'extreme' action of refusal to vacate the default judgment." Emasco Ins. Co., 834 F.2d at 75.

D. Alternative Sanctions

Finally, the Court concludes that alternative sanctions effectively respond to Psi Chapter's lack of respect for its procedural obligations. Entry of default, or alternative sanctions imposed in place thereof, serve as a "wake-up call" to complacent or somnolent parties. Foy v. Dicks, 146 F.R.D. 113, 117-118 (E.D. Pa. 1993). Plaintiff Griffen argues that alternative sanctions would not stand to rectify what Mr. Griffen describes as the egregious bad faith conduct of Psi Chapter, and that the award of attorneys fees "would be a pointless exercise" because Psi Chapter has shown no defense to his claims. Williams, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12130, at * 9. However, in light of the Court's finding that Psi Chapter has a potentially meritorious defense, that Plaintiff will not be prejudiced should the Court set aside the default, and that Psi Chapter's conduct was not marked by flagrant bad faith, the Court will impose a monetary sanction against Psi Chapter rather than refuse to set aside the default.

III. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the Court grants Defendant Psi Chapter's Motion Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(c) and 60(b) to Set Aside Default Judgment. Now that all parties are actively involved in this suit, the matter is ready to proceed to discovery and litigation on the merits.
